UNIVERSITY OF SAINT JOSEPH

聖若瑟大學

The University of Saint Joseph was created in Macao in 1996 by the Catholic Foundation for Higher Education (owned in equal parts by the Diocese of Macau and the Portuguese Catholic University) with the aim of setting up a Catholic University in Macao, closely following the model and standards of top European universities.

Our university follows an honourable and long history of Catholic tertiary education in Macao, initiated in the late 16th Century by Fr. Alessandro Valignano, founder of the University College of Saint Paul.

聖若瑟大學於1996年創立，由澳門教區與葡萄牙天主教會大學共同設立的天主教會大學暨高等教育基金一同創辦，目標是在澳門建立一所緊隨歐洲一流大學模式和標準的天主教會大學。

十六世紀時，亞歷山德羅·范禮安神父(Fr. Alessandro Valignano)創辦聖保祿學院，宣告了澳門天主教高等教育的開始。如今，聖若瑟大學仍延續着這一光榮而悠久的歷史。

ACADEMIC CREDENTIALS

The University offers a wide range of programmes across different fields of knowledge. The government of Macao accredits all our programmes, and our graduates have been able to pursue careers and further studies with prestigious local and international institutions.

FACULTY OF RELIGIOUS STUDIES

↳ MASTER OF RELIGIOUS STUDIES

Religion is as old as humanity. Wherever there is human life, there is religion. The scholar F. Max Mueller states, "Whether we descend to the lowest roots of our own intellectual growth, or ascend to the loftiest heights of modern speculation, everywhere we find religion as a power that conquers, and conquers even those who think they have conquered it. Hence, understanding religion – as a major force in human experience – in its historical, social, political, intellectual, and artistic influence is self-evident.

The recently renamed "Faculty of Religious Studies" (FRS) provides a venue within the University of St. Joseph and the wider local community for the exploration of the historical, intellectual, social, and cultural aspects of the various religious traditions. Being situated in Macao, FRS continues the long tradition of dialogue between faith and culture.

Our Religious Studies Programmes are designed to cater to the needs of two classes of students:

(1) Those enrolled in the degree of Bachelor of Christian Studies. This is meant for religious men/women and lay individuals who are interested in an initial degree in Catholic theology, namely those preparing for the ordained ministry in the Catholic Church who require a canonical Bachelor degree in Catholic Theology. It prepares them for teaching and pastoral ministries, or further studies in Theology.

(2) Those who wish to do a Master or Ph.D. in Religious Studies. These graduate courses train students to develop a deeper understanding of religion and its relation to society and culture. Different religious traditions are explored through comparative and thematic studies in their specific historical and cultural contexts.

The Faculty of Religious Studies likewise hosts lectures, conferences, and evening classes for all comers from local society, to foster a sense of belonging to a vibrant intellectual and faith community.

FACULTY OF HUMANITIES

- ↘ MASTER OF HISTORY & HERITAGE STUDIES
- ↘ MESTRADO EM ESTUDOS LUSÓFONOS DE LITERATURA (taught in Portuguese)
- ↘ MASTER OF PHILOSOPHY

The study of the Humanities concerns how we document, describe, understand and reflect upon the human experience: essentially whatever humans have thought, written, spoken or created throughout history.

At USJ, we offer students a range of core Humanities disciplines including Philosophy, Chinese and Portuguese languages and cultures, and the study of History and Heritage. In each area of studies, we are concerned with critical, logical thinking and observation, the ability to analyse, evaluate and report through clearly expressed language. Our students are also encouraged to broaden their learning experience by participating in international exchange programmes.

Our central goal is to enrich the knowledge and understanding of our students about their world, while imparting fundamental practical skills. The study of the Humanities opens the door to a diverse range of career paths.

I welcome you to join us.

MASTER OF COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT

The rapid and substantial economic development of Macao (and indeed China) must be accompanied by equal efforts in developing people and communities. Macao is a different city demographically, economically, socially, religiously, ethnically, linguistically, with a more focused and distinct identity in the global arena. Not surprisingly, while the outward identity of Macao has greater prominence and focus, inwardly, the city shows the scars of rapid change: dilution of traditional neighbourhoods, apprehension over the arrival of numerous foreign workers, social tensions derived from evolving economic realities, political activism that pacifies individuals, but does not better situations. Therein lies the need to develop persons who learn how to develop communities.

Community development focuses on the identification, allocation, and effective use of neighbourhood resources, such as people, formal and informal social groups and leadership structures, economic and financial conditions, and on the mobilisation of these resources to bring the community to a higher level of development. This programme of studies in Community Development at the Master's level belongs to the academic area of Social Work. It will expose to and train students in the major theoretical and practical approaches to the development of communities.

FACULTY OF SOCIAL SCIENCES

▾ MASTER OF CLINICAL SOCIAL WORK

▾ MASTER OF COUNSELLING & PSYCHOTHERAPY

Social science is a very wide field of research and action, and USJ has chosen two sectors in this field: Psychology and Social Work. Some would say that these two dimensions belong to helping professions. Indeed they are, and they have specific expertise to offer. But the trainings we offer are open to many other professions in the market, for example in human resource management or in the hospitality industry. Because we focus on the person, in his/her desire to live a life he/she has reason to value, our teaching and training are person-centred, on what students can achieve at their best. For this, besides formal classroom teaching, we emphasise personal "coaching", which is important for acquiring requested knowledge and developing personal talents for the good of the person and society. In so doing, our ambition is to contribute, with other partners, to the flourishing of Macao community by giving it responsible experts open to wide horizons.

INSTITUTE OF SCIENCE AND ENVIRONMENT

MASTER OF ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCES AND MANAGEMENT

Modern societies are facing major environmental, social, economic and health challenges as consequence of rapid population growth, urbanisation and rise in global affluence. These concerns are particularly relevant for Macao, located downstream to the highly industrialised Pearl River Delta region and one of the most densely populated areas of the world. Overcoming these challenges will require a coordinated effort from different sectors of the society. In particular, advances in science and technology seem fundamental aids to a successful transition towards more sustainable and healthier societies.

The Institute of Science and Environment develops basic and applied research in different domains of science, including Biology, Environmental Sciences, and Earth Sciences. Our mission is to contribute towards a deeper understanding of the natural world by a sound scientific approach and, when possible, to provide useful knowledge for decision and policy-making in science and environment-related topics.

The Institute is also focused in science dissemination and education as it believes that proper education in science and technology is fundamental for responsible decisions by citizens and, ultimately, social progress. The Institute regularly undertakes science and environmental education actions directed to the general public and to students from all levels of education.

Students from both graduate and undergraduate levels have the opportunity to participate in our research projects and receive training in advanced science and technology methods and concepts. This provides a dynamic and engaging learning environment where students can actively contribute to scientific progress, while developing as skilled professionals and responsible citizens.

DOCTORAL PROGRAMMES

Advancing the scientific knowledge in different fields of studies is one of the key missions of USJ. Our doctoral programmes are central to this mission, as they run in close connection to the research being carried out by our faculty, and our doctoral candidates are active participants in the research process. Under the guidance of a supervisor, and often integrated in research projects ongoing at the University, you will have the opportunity to investigate a topic in a specific scientific area to the full extent of your abilities. The programme also promotes interdisciplinary training by organising activities open to doctoral candidates from all fields of study, allowing an overview of how research is carried out in other scientific fields. Modern research implies global cooperation and our professors have well developed research networks, both at a local and international level, stimulating our doctoral candidates to interact with other researchers worldwide and develop internationally recognised research in their respective scientific fields. As a doctoral candidate at USJ, you will experience a vibrant and highly international research environment, unique in Macao, which will instill you to acquire the necessary knowledge, skills and independence to teach and research in today's globalised world.
