

聖若瑟大學
UNIVERSITY OF
SAINT JOSEPH

GRADUATE PROSPECTUS 2019-2020

UNIVERSITY OF SAINT JOSEPH

Created in 1996, the University of Saint Joseph (USJ) is a Catholic university in Macao SAR, China. It is rooted in the rich tradition of St. Paul's College (now "Ruins of St. Paul"), the first higher education institution in East Asia, established by the Jesuits in 1594. The project of the Jesuit fathers Valignano, Ruggieri and Ricci inspires USJ's view of higher education with a universal character capable of promoting creative dialogue between the cultural, scientific, ethical and philosophical traditions of China and Europe. In recognition of this heritage, USJ has developed as "an international academy in which East meets West, open to all who seek truth and excellence in learning, teaching or research, and inclusive of all ethnic, social or religious affiliation; a community committed to whole person development and a caring, ethically responsible, economically, environmentally and socially sustainable society" (USJ Mission Statement).

ACADEMIC CREDENTIALS

The university offers a wide range of programmes across different fields of knowledge. All of our programmes have been approved by the Macao SAR Government and our graduates have been able to pursue careers and further studies with prestigious local and international institutions.

RICH ACADEMIC, SOCIAL & CULTURAL LIFE

Come and visit USJ on any given day and you are likely to find a concert, debate, public lecture or other academic or cultural activity. Besides strong academic programmes, being a student at USJ is an enriching and involving experience that enables you to develop multiple skills and interests.

FACULTY OF RELIGIOUS STUDIES

The Faculty of Religious Studies (FRS) is a community of scholars and students engaged in research, teaching and studying the disciplines of Philosophy and Theology, together with other necessary, ancillary disciplines. Traditionally, our fields of study were referred to as the Handmaid and the Queen of the Sciences and here, at the University of Saint Joseph, we can proudly claim our place at the heart of the academic work and mission of this Catholic University.

Two giants of Catholic philosophy and theology give us our basic orientation. St Thomas Aquinas, the great Dominican theologian, teaches us that human nature is created with the capacity to know and love God; he is naturally capax Dei. St Augustine, the other guide, is often called the teacher of grace, doctor gratia. He reminds us that we long to know God in the depths of our hearts and we cannot be at rest until we do. Created to live in communion with his Creator each human being is a free and intelligent individual, integrated in the community with his own duties and rights; he is the connecting link between the two great spheres of reality – the material and the spiritual – and he fully belongs to both. Accordingly, wherever there is human life, there is religion.

Understanding religion in its historical, social, political, intellectual, and artistic aspects is, therefore, self-evidently important. Nevertheless, whilst necessary to understand the human condition, such an approach is not sufficient, since it does not fully engage with the truth claims of religion in general and specifically with the Christian claim of God's definitive and full self-revelation in Jesus Christ. FRS provides a venue within the University of Saint Joseph and the wider local community for the exploration of the religious, historical, intellectual, social, and cultural aspects of the various religious traditions and especially those of the Christian faith. It is both a place where religion can be encountered and studied and one in which all can come to engage with the Catholic faith, understood as a life-giving sacra doctrina, Holy Teaching. Being situated in Macao, FRS continues the long tradition of dialogue between faith and culture.

FACULTY OF HUMANITIES

The study of the Humanities concerns how we document, describe, understand and reflect upon the human experience: essentially whatever humans have thought, written, spoken or created throughout history.

At USJ, we offer students a range of core Humanities disciplines including Philosophy, Chinese and Portuguese languages and cultures, and the study of History and Heritage. In each area of studies, we are concerned with critical, logical thinking and observation, the ability to analyse, evaluate and report through clearly expressed language. Our students are also encouraged to broaden their learning experience by participating in international exchange programmes.

Our central goal is to enrich the knowledge and understanding of our students about their world, while imparting fundamental practical skills. The study of the Humanities opens the door to a diverse range of career paths.

We welcome you to join us.

MASTER OF LUSOPHONE STUDIES IN LINGUISTICS AND LITERATURE

The programme provides students with specialized knowledge and skills fundamental to such professional areas as teaching, diplomatic service and international organizations concerned with the Portuguese language and culture.

There are two specialization areas, Linguistics and Literary Studies, and suitably qualified students of each area are permitted to take two approved subjects from the other area. In both specializations, the student will study core modules of theory and methodology, prior to proceeding with modules of wider reference in the specialization area, before preparing a research thesis.

The Linguistics specialization has two thematic areas. The first, Sociolinguistics, studies the social and geographic dimensions of varieties of Portuguese and of Creole Portuguese, especially in Asia. It is novel in including a special module dedicated to Macao's Creole Portuguese language, Patuá. The second thematic area is concerned with Language Acquisition and Transmission.

The Literature specialization will address the multidirectional exchanges between literatures from Portuguese Speaking Countries and territories where Portuguese is one of the official languages.

Literatures in Portuguese will be considered from the perspective of combined approaches in Comparative, Literary, Cultural and Postcolonial Studies.

MASTER OF PHILOSOPHY

To pursue Macao's long tradition in "humanistic education", philosophy being at the core of Humanities, our Master Degree in Philosophy, with specialisation in Comparative Philosophy, is designed for those who wish to explore philosophical issues either as an expansion of undergraduate studies or following a first degree in a subject other than philosophy.

The programme aim is to provide research training in a manner that fosters the development of independent research skills.

The specialisation in Comparative Philosophy focuses primarily on the question of philosophical methodology from a cross-cultural perspective. Different concepts, theories and approaches to issues concerning ethics and aesthetics, the mind and consciousness, culture and society, action and politics, among others, will be studied and discussed in the first year of the programme. The second year will see students concentrating on their dissertation with the help of a seminar in research methodology.

SCHOOL OF BUSINESS AND LAW

As one of the pioneers offering an Entrepreneurship stream in a Bachelor of Business Administration programme, our School of Business and Law focuses on innovation and social responsibility. We have been training young entrepreneurs in starting their own business, or as corporate entrepreneurs promoting new initiatives in large organisations.

Our programmes are designed for whole person development, training leaders not only in their business skills but also in their social and humanistic values. Our vision is that our students join society to apply their leadership capacity in creating social changes, as well as offering solutions to improve people's lives through innovative ventures and social enterprises.

At the School of Business and Law, we adopt an international style of teaching through various methods including problem-solving, case studies, project-based learning, to name a few. We aim to offer a unique experience to our students where internationalisation meets local tradition. We do this through a faculty of multiple nationality, students from different parts of the worlds, a mixture of global and local business case studies, and opportunity to visit different organisations in Macao and other nearby Chinese cities.

MASTER OF COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT

The rapid and substantial economic development of Macao (and indeed China) must be accompanied by equal efforts in developing people and communities. Macao is a different city demographically, economically, socially, religiously, ethnically, linguistically, with a more focused and distinct identity in the global arena. Not surprisingly, while the outward identity of Macao has greater prominence and focus, inwardly, the city shows the scars of rapid change: dilution of traditional neighbourhoods, apprehension over the arrival of numerous foreign workers, and social tensions derived from evolving economic realities. Therein lies the need to develop persons who know how to develop communities.

Community development focuses on the identification, allocation, and effective use of neighbourhood resources, such as people, formal and informal social groups and leadership structures, economic and financial conditions, and on the mobilisation of these resources to bring the community to a higher level of development. This programme of studies in Community Development will train students in the major theoretical and practical approaches to the development of communities.

SCHOOL OF EDUCATION

The School of Education (SED) stands within the Catholic culture of USJ and serves its mission of providing excellence in teaching, learning and research in an environment that embraces social and intellectual interactions between local and international students and staff. Since its foundation, USJ (formerly IUUM) has been oriented towards educational sciences, having run its first graduate programme in education in 1997. Its continuous commitment to serving the community and the exponential growth of the Department of Education culminated in the establishment of the School of Education in 2017.

Our current work spans doctoral studies in education, in- and pre-service teacher learning, inclusive education, creative arts and school leadership in Macao, China and globally. Some of our programmes, such as the Master of Education in Special and Inclusive Education, are unique within the higher education system of Macao. Our more recent project, the launching of the Bishop Domingos Lam Centre for Research in Education in 2019, presents exciting opportunities to engage students and researchers in the pursuit of understanding education through inquiry and discovery. This transformative steps will lead us to become a distinguished educational research hub.

Nothing is more important to achieving our aims than faithfully guide you to excel in your studies and be equipped for a principled and industrious career path in schools, universities or educational communities in Macao or overseas. We prepare you to fulfil your dream of being a well-rounded 21st century educator or researcher.

POST-GRADUATE DIPLOMA IN EDUCATION

The Postgraduate Diploma in Education (PGDE) offered by the University of Saint Joseph is a one-year full-time evening programme aimed at graduates wishing to teach in Infant, Primary or Secondary schools or in-service teachers wishing to receive professional qualifications in teaching.

The programme reviews and considers different educational theories, concepts and perspectives within the field of learning and teaching, curriculum development and evaluation, educational psychology, and communication technology.

The main goals are to fulfil the government policy on teacher's qualification and professionalism, to identify future trends and the impacts of globalisation in the ways educational processes are conceived and schools are organised for change. Students will also discuss importance of schooling and education, teaching and learning methods, the essentials for teaching practices, and the impact of social developments in education.

This programme is recognised by the Education Bureau of the Macao SAR as a teacher training qualification.

The PGDE programme runs for a minimum duration of 12 months and a maximum duration of 18 months. The programme is designed in three languages, Chinese, English and Portuguese.

DIPLOMA DE PÓS-GRADUAÇÃO EM EDUCAÇÃO

O Diploma de Pós-Graduação em Educação (PGDE) visa a formação de educadores de infância, professores do ensino primário ou secundário.

O programa de PGDE oferece aos alunos uma sólida base teórica na área da educação e do ensino-aprendizagem, desde competências profissionais a conhecimentos pedagógicos e de gestão de sala de aula, fornecendo-lhes as qualificações necessárias para a docência em escolas do ensino pré-primário, primário e secundário. O programa examina teorias educacionais e boas práticas no campo do desenvolvimento curricular e da avaliação, da psicologia educacional, das metodologias de ensino-aprendizagem e das tecnologias de comunicação. Inclui sete módulos concebidos e leccionados por académicos locais e estrangeiros, os quais reflectem os resultados da investigação realizada internacionalmente nesta área do conhecimento e as diferentes tendências educacionais da actualidade. Para além da frequência das aulas na universidade, os alunos completam dois estágios em escolas locais, os quais constituem uma característica marcante do programa. Durante os estágios os alunos trabalham em ambiente de sala de aula com professores experientes, aplicam os conhecimentos previamente adquiridos e desenvolvem a sua auto-confiança como professores.

MASTER OF EDUCATION

This Master programme with two specialisations in Special Needs and Inclusive Education and School Management and Leadership provides a combination of a sound theoretical foundation and professional competence in two of the most important educational areas of our society.

SPECIAL NEEDS AND INCLUSIVE EDUCATION

The Master of Education programme with specialisation in Special Needs and Inclusive Education is designed for teachers and persons involved and/or interested in serving individuals with disabilities mainly in regular school settings. The M.Ed. focuses on the theoretical, evidence-based, methodological and practical aspects of teaching and learning in inclusive and culturally diverse classrooms. The programme challenges traditional beliefs related to special needs education and fosters professional competence to educate students with special needs (SEN) and gifted students. Professors teaching in the programme are international and local academics with accomplished roles as researchers and practitioners in the field of inclusive education.

SCHOOL MANAGEMENT AND LEADERSHIP

The Master of Education programme with specialisation in School Management and Leadership is designed for teachers, middle management school personnel, school administrators and persons involved and/or interested in educational leadership. With a broad and deep understanding of educational leadership related areas such as curriculum planning and development, school evaluation and change, and management of human and material resources, the candidates are set to take a role as leaders in school or classroom settings. Professors teaching in the programme are international and local academics with accomplished roles as researchers and practitioners in the field of school management and leadership.

FACULTY OF SOCIAL SCIENCES

Social science is a very wide field of research and action, and USJ has chosen two of its sectors: Psychology and Social Work. Some would say that these two dimensions belong to helping professions. Indeed they are, and they have specific expertise to offer. But the trainings we offer are open to many other professions in the market, for example in human resource management or in the hospitality industry. Because we focus on the person, in his/her desire to live a life he/she has reason to value, our teaching and training are person-centred, on what students can achieve at their best. For this, besides formal classroom teaching, we emphasise personal “coaching”, which is important for acquiring requested knowledge and developing personal talents for the good of the person and society. In so doing, our ambition is to contribute, with other partners, to the flourishing of the Macao community by giving it responsible experts open to wide horizons.

MASTER OF SOCIAL WORK

The USJ Master of Social Work Programme is set up to support social development in Macao by providing social work professionals and managers of social organisations with the knowledge, attitudes and skills needed to advance social work practice in Macao.

This Programme prepares students for leadership in social policy, programme development and evaluation, as well as management of social welfare and human services in both government and non-governmental organisations (NGOs). The design philosophy of this Programme is to first introduce a wide scope of concepts to students, followed by the practical application of the theories in respective fields.

FACULTY OF CREATIVE INDUSTRIES

The University of Saint Joseph is a leading international university in China's Special Administrative Region (SAR) of Macao, where the creative and cultural industries are acknowledged as a strategic area for the development of a vibrant and pioneering cluster of businesses and entrepreneurs. The field of Creative Industries represents an innovative paradigm for our contemporary knowledge-based society, closely associated with recent trends in cultural activities, digital emergent technologies, and sustainable urban development.

Created in 2012, the new Faculty of Creative Industries integrates some of the most successful programmes of our university, ranging from the most traditional sub-sectors of the Creative Industries, such as Design, Fashion Design, Architecture, Digital Cinema and Communication & Media, to new fields of study that increasingly converge on the creative domain, such as Information Systems and Environment & Urban Development.

Some of our programmes, such as Architecture, Fashion Design and Digital Cinema, are unique within the higher education system of Macao, but above all, the integration of each of these areas within the same faculty provides a unique multidisciplinary community in which students have access to exceptional education opportunities and a work environment that allows them to extend their abilities to the utmost.

With our community of students and academic staff, sited within the exponentially growing entertainment and business environment of Macao, USJ is already a leading university in the field of Creative Industries in East Asia.

INSTITUTE OF SCIENCE AND ENVIRONMENT

Modern societies are facing major environmental, social, economic and health challenges as consequence of rapid population growth, urbanisation and rise in global affluence. These concerns are particularly relevant for Macao, located downstream to the highly industrialised Pearl River Delta region and one of the most densely populated areas of the world. Overcoming these challenges will require a coordinated effort from different sectors of the society. In particular, advances in science and technology seem fundamental aids to a successful transition towards more sustainable and healthier societies.

The mission of the Institute of Science and Environment is to develop research and teaching of the highest standards in different domains of science, including Biology, Environmental Sciences, and Ocean and Earth Sciences. We aim to contribute towards a deeper understanding of the natural world by a sound scientific approach and to prepare well-qualified professionals that can respond to tomorrow's global challenges and lead the way towards a sustainable development of Macao.

The Institute is also focused in science dissemination and education as it believes that proper education in science and technology is fundamental for responsible decisions by citizens and, ultimately, social progress. The Institute regularly undertakes science and environmental education actions directed to the general public and to students from all levels of education.

Our students have the opportunity to develop their skills in an international and cross-disciplinary environment where critical and creative thinking is fostered. This provides a dynamic and engaging learning environment where students can develop as skilled professionals and responsible citizens.

Dean of the Institute of Science and Environment

David Gonçalves

MASTER OF ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCES AND MANAGEMENT

The Master of Environmental Sciences and Management will prepare you to work in academic, technical and management areas related with environment.

The increasing pressure on natural resources and rising environmental degradation is driving a demand for well-trained professionals in environmental sciences and management both by the private and public sectors. The programme balances research-based modules (e.g. Environmental Technologies; Ecotoxicology and Environmental Health) with management-related modules (e.g. Environmental Management; Creativity, Innovation & Entrepreneurship) to train professionals that master the specific concepts and methods of environmental sciences and that are also able to implement environmental solutions in organisations and industries. A highly qualified body of international researchers and industry leaders from diverse scientific areas supports the programme, allowing students to be integrated in broader projects and receive hands-on training in advanced methods and techniques in environmental sciences. This provides a dynamic and engaging learning environment where students can develop skills and acquire knowledge useful for a career in a number of environment-related areas. Ultimately, the programme aims to increase the supply of professionals that can contribute with solutions to the demanding environmental challenges that the world is facing.

TYPICAL CAREER OPTIONS

- In companies and governmental agencies of any nature to implement Environmental Management Systems
- In Environmental Impact Assessment, Environmental Quality Monitoring and Environmental Remediation teams
- In laboratories to establish and run analytical protocols for the quantification and characterisation of pollutants
- As technicians in liquid and solid waste management stations
- As consultants in environmental consulting companies
- As educators in environmental sciences
- In environmental protection governmental agencies and NGOs
- In R&D in environmental sciences in private and public companies
- As researchers in universities and higher education institutes

KEY FEATURES

- A first year that provides a broad training in relevant concepts and techniques in environmental sciences and management and a second year that promotes specialisation by internships and/or development of a research project in a specific topic for the dissertation
- Organised in close connection to research projects coordinated by the lecturers of the modules, allowing students to be integrated in active research teams
- Broad range of career options in the private and public sector

RECOMMENDED PRIOR KNOWLEDGE

A Bachelor degree is required.

PROGRAMME STRUCTURE

Students must complete 6 main modules and 4 optional modules, followed by a final project and a dissertation

MAIN MODULES

- Creativity, Innovation & Entrepreneurship
- Environmental Sciences
- Environmental Law and Politics
- Research Methods and Data Analysis
- Pollution and Waste Management
- Environmental Management

OPTIONAL MODULES

- Environmental Ethics
- Ecology and Ecosystem Conservation
- Environmental Technologies
- Climate Change and Coastal Processes
- Ecotoxicology and Environmental Health
- Environmental Impact Assessment and Environmental Standards

V1 is the primary vision area and the highest processing level:
input from the thalamus and it projects to other occipital regions.

V2 is the second level and also projects to all other occipital regions.

After V2, 3 distinct parallel pathways exist:
1. dorsal stream - visual guidance of movement
2. ventral stream - object perception/color
3. temporal stream

DOCTORAL PROGRAMMES

Advancing the scientific knowledge in different fields of studies is one of the key missions of USJ. Our doctoral programmes are central to this mission, as they run in close connection to the research being carried out by our faculty, and our doctoral candidates are active participants in the research process. Under the guidance of a supervisor, and often integrated in research projects ongoing at the university, you will have the opportunity to investigate a topic in a specific scientific area to the full extent of your abilities. The programme also promotes interdisciplinary training by organising activities open to doctoral candidates from all fields of study, allowing an overview of how research is carried out in other scientific fields. Modern research implies global cooperation and our professors have well developed research networks, both at a local and international level, stimulating our doctoral candidates to interact with other researchers worldwide and develop internationally recognised research in their respective scientific fields. As a doctoral candidate at USJ, you will experience a vibrant and highly international research environment, unique in Macao, which will instill you to acquire the necessary knowledge, skills and independence to teach and research in today's globalised world.

DOCTORAL PROGRAMMES

The Doctoral Programmes are research-oriented degrees aimed to develop advanced theoretical and practical research skills in a specific area of knowledge. Doctoral candidates complete main modules in research methods and foundation knowledge in their proposed research field, and then work with a supervisor to complete their doctoral thesis.

Doctoral candidates are expected to develop an original scientific work that contributes to a significant theoretical advance in the field. The main objective of the programme is to prepare highly qualified professionals, capable of developing R&D activities in private and public organisations or to develop an academic career

THE UNIVERSITY OFFERS DOCTORAL PROGRAMMES IN THE FOLLOWING AREAS:

- Business Administration
- Education
- Global Studies
- Government Studies
- History
- Information Systems
- Psychology
- Religious Studies
- Science

KEY FEATURES

- Research-oriented programme supported by highly-qualified internal and external researchers from various areas of knowledge and fields of specialisation
- Training in research methods and theoretical concepts in the first year of studies and development of a doctoral thesis in a specific field of specialisation in the following years

PROGRAMME STRUCTURE

Students complete the curricular part of the programme during the first year, which is composed of the following 5 main modules:

MAIN MODULES

- Methodologies of Investigation
- Methods and Techniques for Quantitative Research
- Methods and Techniques for Qualitative Research
- Integrative Research Seminars
- Specialist Studies and Reading Programme

During the first year, students are also required to prepare a thesis proposal. The approval of the proposal and completion of all the modules is a requirement to progress to the thesis-writing stage of the programme.

THESIS

This is the major part of doctoral student's studies. Working directly under an academic supervisor, the student independently completes an original and significant research project. Students start their thesis after the work proposed and supervisory arrangements have been approved by the university.
