Senior Lecturer in English language at the University of Saint Joseph, Macao

The English Language Centre (ELC) of the University of Saint Joseph (USJ) is currently looking to fill the following vacancy:

Senior Lecturer (Ref. No.: ELC-L66)

The University of Saint Joseph is a major international university in Macao, with students from more than 40 different countries, and staff of 20-plus nationalities. It is also an English-medium university where the English language serves a range of diverse needs as a lingua franca in a multicultural academic community.

The English Language Centre (ELC) intends to become a leading centre in the Asian region for teaching and research on English language, English for Academic Purposes and English-medium instruction (EMI), as well as other areas of English linguistics and sociolinguistics. We would welcome applications for this post from suitably-qualified candidates who are interested in joining a team of creative and energetic educators in the ELC.

Responsibilities will include teaching a range of English language courses and English for Academic Purposes (EAP) courses at undergraduate and/or postgraduate levels; contributing to curriculum development and materials design, as well as various other activities.

Qualifications:

For Senior Lecturer position, applicants should have a Master's degree in Applied Linguistics, TESOL, or a closely-related field. They should also have a strong background in teaching EAP courses, or a cognate area of applied English linguistics. Knowledge of teaching pedagogy will be an advantage and applicants with relevant teaching experience are preferred. Applicants ideally will need to possess appropriate teaching and course development experience and an administration and management background as applicable.

Applicants should submit their applications online at the following link:
